

Please do not stop satellite radio from airing travel and weather channels. My husband is a trucker and he uses the weather and travel to help him avoid backups and to forewarn him about the weather situation where he is heading. This is a very useful tool for the truckers. If they know where the accidents or road backups are, they can avoid adding to the congestion. If they know in advance that the weather is getting severe where they are heading, they can make arrangements to deal with that in advance. Advance warning is one of the greatest tools drivers can have.

I think it would be a great disservice to ban satellite radio from airing any program it wants. I pay for satellite radio so that I do not have to listen to the garbage most of the DJ's spout on a regular basis, and it is a great convenience for my husband to not have to spend a lot of time and attention trying to find a new radio station whenever he gets too far from whatever city he was just in.

Satellite radio is a really good thing and it should not be changed just because the National Association of Broadcasters do not like it. There are a lot of people who have satellite radios because they are tired of the way the National Association of Broadcasters have things now. It is a lot better to listen to the type of music you want without all of the garbage. Please leave satellite radio the way it is.

Thank you.
